Post Visit Ratings sheets, coded for the dataset

Entries in red denote variable names and values used in the analysis dataset.

This document created on 13 July 2007.

Notes:
1. For some items, the value codes used in the dataset may differ from the codes used in the raw data
2. For all items, the variable names used in the dataset (starting with 'epv') differ from the variable names used in the raw data (starting with 'pv')
3. In the raw data, a 'missing' response is coded as -99 and 'not applicable' is coded as -77, but in the analysis dataset these are recoded to missing values
4. Most of the data recorded in these sheets is coded numeric data (e.g. yes/no responses coded 1/0). However a couple of items are entered as free numeric responses (where the tester has recorded an uncoded number). There is no free text data in the dataset.
5. All data in this document is specific to the tester of a particular twin (either elder or younger), and the item data are held in variables with names ending in '1', relating to the twin in question (the 'index' twin). However, in the double-entered dataset the variables are duplicated for the co-twins, so data for both twins can be compared within a single row of the dataset. In the double-entered dataset, variables with names ending in '1' refer to the index twin, while variables with names ending in '2' refer to the co-twin.
6. This document only shows item variables not derived variables.
7. The layout and formatting of the pages of the booklet have been slightly modified to incorporate the variable names and codes.
